INTRODUCTION

The Planning and Highways Committee of the District Council, at a meeting on 5th February 1976, resolved to undertake an investigation into the position relating to all shacks within the district. The term "shack" is used to describe those buildings constructed of materials of less than average permanency and used for residential occupation on full-time or holiday basis. The definition is necessarily vague since the structures involved range from elaborate and well-equipped wooden buildings to bizarre conversions of vehicle bodies.

Unlike caravan sites, which are subject to control by specific legislation enacted by Parliament, shacks enjoy the same development rights as traditional dwellings and are subject only to the general control or development exercisable under the powers of the Town and Country Planning Acts. The fundamental difference between shacks and the great majority of the housing stock of the Wyre Forest District is that many of the former, having been established before the advent of planning control, are situated in attractive rural areas which would not now be regarded as suitable for housing development and whilst originally individually built by their owners for unsophisticated weekend accommodation, many have been extended and modernised, some are now permanently occupied and all despite their temporary form of construction are becoming established features in the landscape.

There are undoubtedly arguments in support of the recreational value of holiday homes in the countryside, but there are also dangers that the perpetuation of unsightly structures in prominent locations will harm the appearance of the rural areas for many years in the future. In respect of permanent dwellings, the District Council also has a statutory duty to ensure that these are fit for human habitation in compliance with the Housing Acts. The special nature of some shacks poses particular problems in this context.

It is from a wish to examine in detail the special problems relating to shacks and to formulate appropriate detailed policies to control their development that this investigation was initiated.

This report sets out the general history of local authority planning policy relating to shacks as included in the Worcestershire County Structure Plan and its predecessor document, the County Development Plan. It gives details of all known shack sites with a brief description of each accompanied by appropriate plans. The report is primarily descriptive and is intended as a basis upon which a programme of appropriate action can be formulated in the light of the information given here and of the overall strategic policies for the County as set out in the Structure Plan.
1. GENERAL PLANNING HISTORY

COUNTY DEVELOPMENT PLAN 1951

The first reference to the planning problems of shack development in Worcestershire occur in the County Development Plan 1951 - Report of Survey. The report states that the origin of many shacks stems from a housing shortage after the 1914-16 war. Air raids in the 1939-45 war on the west Midlands concentration led to many evacuees taking up permanent residence in these shacks and some chose to stay on after the war. Many shacks were also built after the war, before the powers of the 1947 Town and Country Planning Act began to be used as a means of control.

The Report of Survey stated that there were over 2000 caravans and shacks in the County in 1951, the majority being in the Severn Valley. Whilst appreciating the trend of public demand for short holidays in the country and the attractions that Worcestershire offered in this respect, the County Council considered that the uncontrolled spread of caravans and shacks had already despoiled the appearance of some attractive areas and where they occurred in colonies, that there arose a demand for water supply and sanitation services that was difficult or uneconomic to meet.

After consideration of the facts, the County Council resolved to act in accordance with the following policy:

1. Land of the highest amenity value should be completely cleared of unsightly developments.

2. Concentrated sites and over-large colonies should be thinned out and reduced in size.

3. Land in suitable places will be acquired by the County Council to accommodate displaced development and for future needs.

4. Standard minimum requirements for public health and sanitary purposes will be drawn up and enforced in conjunction with local authorities.

5. Wherever possible, separate sites should be provided for:
   a) genuine camping under canvas
   b) mobile trailer caravans
   c) non mobile structures

6. Old 'bus bodies, vans, trams and the like should not be tolerated in the county.

7. Enforcement action to be taken in respect of all unauthorised use of land for caravans and shacks.

In addition to this general policy, the written statement of the Development Plan included specific reference to the Kingsford area where approximately eight acres of land were designated for compulsory purchase by the County Council to improve the facilities and to provide additional space for caravans and chalets used for holiday purposes.

The County Council recognised that the natural demand was for the location of holiday shacks in areas of attractive landscape and formulated a policy that if and where any sites were permitted, stringent conditions governing the extent, type and layout of the development and the design of the structures would be imposed. Permission for permanent residential use of holiday sites was stated to be unlikely to be forthcoming.
County Development Plan Review 1962: No specific reference was made to shack development, however the need for strict control over development in the rural areas was stressed.

Worcestershire Countryside Studies - Part II: North Worcestershire.
This report, published by the County Planning Officer in 1970, was a response to the need for positive planning in the countryside as envisaged by the Countryside Act 1968. The report concerned itself with those areas of the county most directly affected by the demand for outdoor recreation arising from the amelioration. The proposals in the report included a Country Park centred on Kingsford and occupying an area of 94 acres which, at that time, included many shacks considered by the County Council to be in need of clearance.

Worcestershire Countryside Studies: Part II: The Severn Valley.
This report, in the same series as that described above, was published in 1971. The report states:

"The Survey showed that there are over 560 holiday bungalows or shacks, within the study area, all of which were located between Worcester and the county boundary with Shropshire. The largest concentration of these (56%) occurs along the six-mile stretch of riverside above Bewdley.

"The development of holiday bungalows and shack sites took place in an unrelated and haphazard way. Little regard was paid to the siting of the buildings, topography of the area, the provision of public services or vehicular access. They vary from dilapidated wooden sheds to brick or prefabricated structures.

"The problem of both the holiday bungalow and shack sites is one which requires urgent attention. It is obviously important that efforts should be made to reduce the impact which these sites have upon the landscape of the Valley and that the development of any further sites should be strictly controlled. This is particularly necessary north of Bewdley where the situation has already reached saturation point."

The proposals section of the report dwells further on the problems north of Bewdley, and differentiates to some extent between the east and west banks.
It states:

"On the west bank, the bungalows and shacks with a few exceptions, are located on sites which, with some improvement of facilities, layout and landscaping, could become an acceptable element of the Valley. In the area as a whole, any further intrusion of structures of this kind should be resisted and as time goes on opportunities may arise to get rid of badly sited temporary buildings."

Worcestershire County Structure Plan
This plan, approved by the Secretary of State for the Environment in 1975, is the current policy document relating to the County and contains operative policies relevant to shack development. These are:

"1) Because of the problems created, the development of new holiday chalets must be firmly controlled. Isolated chalets should be discouraged and proposals for groups of chalets should be subject to the same rigorous examination as static holiday caravan sites.

11) Great care will need to be exercised to ensure any chalets or holiday bungalows which may be permitted are subject to appropriate conditions and control in order that they do not acquire use rights as permanent homes.
Such conditions would, among other matters, prohibit their occupation during the winter months and control the design and materials to ensure that the structures are consistent with their proposed use.

iii) The existing policy of purchasing chalets at Kingsford \ldots \ldots \ldots\ldots \ldots etc., as and when they come on the market, with the object of clearing the sites and either restoring the land to its former use, or putting it to some other acceptable use, will be continued.

iv) Other existing concentrations of chalets and holiday bungalows will be examined to see if similar action would be appropriate.

v) A review of existing chalet development will also be undertaken with a view to bringing them under the same control of occupation as applies to new development."

Both the Worcestershire Countryside Studies - Parts I and II - are compatible with the Structure Plan and are used by the County Council to implement the policies of that document.

It is within the context of this existing planning policy that the District Council has undertaken the survey work, the results of which are set out in this document.

The caves have been identified on the basis of information provided by the District Valuer concerning assessments of rateable value and are categorised initially by parishes. The list of sites identified is believed to be comprehensive, but in the absence of a complete field survey of all buildings in the District, cannot be guaranteed as 100%.

2. POSSIBLE COURSES OF ACTION FOR THE FUTURE

The operative policies of the Worcestershire County Structure Plan, insofar as they relate to existing shack development, require not only a continuation of the existing policy of the purchase of structures at Kingsford, but also an examination of other concentrations for the following reasons:

i) to ascertain whether or not clearance action would be appropriate

ii) if clearance action is not appropriate, to consider methods of effecting the same control of occupation as is applied to new development, i.e., holiday occupation only and appropriate design and landscaping standards.

The pursuance of these policies will involve a significant amount of manpower, and of finance (if clearance action is to be taken) and, therefore, will need to be phased over a period of years.

The different circumstances relating to each site will require differing courses of action and will also suggest a list of priorities for action. There are, however, certain general courses of action which would seem to form the basis upon which special action in relation to the individual sites could be taken. These are:-

1. Article 4 Directions— There is little doubt that the perpetuation of permanently occupied shacks can be effected by the carrying out of works of improvement and extension, including the addition of brick skins, under the permitted development provisions of the General Development Order 74/76. Such works could, in most circumstances, be used to ensure that shacks occupied as permanent dwellings are in compliance with the requirements of the Housing Acts. It would therefore seem appropriate where the continued existence of a shack on a long term basis is considered to be undesirable, that an Article 4 Direction should be served. Such action may also be appropriate where improvements and extensions are condoned to ensure that solutions to the special design problems associated with these unconventional structures are subject to the approval of the planning authority.

In common with the Council's policy of opposing the permanent residential use of caravans, it is likely that Members will not wish to condone the continued existence of the sub-standard facilities which are present in some of the permanently occupied shacks. The authority has a statutory duty to ensure that dwellings comply with the provisions of Sections 9 and 16 of the Housing Act 1957 and Section 268 of the Public Health Act 1936 and where there is believed to be permanent residential occupation inspection of the properties should be a prerequisite to the pursuance of further courses of action. Where, for appropriate reasons, the continuation of a shack is not considered to be desirable, the service of a demolition order would be appropriate supported by an Article 4 Direction to prevent the carrying out of permitted development that would enable the retention of the building. Such action should, of course, be accompanied, where appropriate, by an offer of Council accommodation.

3. Discontinuance of Use/Alteration of Buildings or Works Orders.

The most rapid and effective method of ensuring the removal of undesirable shacks is by the use of powers of discontinuance under Section 54 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1971. Where this action is related to residential properties it is a requirement of the Act that alternative accommodation be made available.

Section 54 also enables the imposition of conditions on the continuance of use of land and also the requiring of the alteration or removal of buildings or works, as the case may be.

Orders to this effect would thus be a means to bring existing developments under the same control of occupation as new, though compensation would, of course, be payable.

4. Section 52 Agreements.

This Section in the Town and Country Planning Act 1971 enables the planning authority to enter into an agreement with any person interested in land in their area for the purposes of restricting or regulating the use of the land and could well be used as an alternative to Item 3 above, relying on co-operation with the owners rather than compulsion. Such action would seem to be particularly appropriate in relation to the large concentrations of holiday shacks, and could be used both to bring about the removal of badly sited structures and to ensure that new ones were of a satisfactory design and that the site was properly landscaped.

5. Take No Action.

This option is available in relation to all sites except where there are known contraventions of legislation in respect of which the local authority has statutory duties.
Bewdley

There are three individual sites and one site comprising several plots in Bewdley. Details are as follows:

J.P. Barker, 19 Acacia Avenue, Bewdley.

Description

This is a single storey wooden dwelling used as a permanent residence, which has been well maintained. It has apparently been in existence for many years and forms part of the residential area.

Description

This is a single storey dwelling of wooden construction, which is used as a permanent residence. It is in a reasonable state of repair. Although in a reasonable condition itself, its appearance in such an attractive area is marred by untidy and delapidated outbuildings.

Planning Position:

This dwelling, in an area of white land on the Bewdley Review Town Map, is immediately adjacent to a Landscape Protection Area. This dwelling, which has no recorded planning history, does however lie in the path of the proposed Bewdley by-pass.

4. Location:

Llangwrl, River Side North. This site is reached along a dirt track leading from the A.456 immediately adjacent to the bridge over the River Severn.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.02 hectares (0.06 acres).

Ownership

Mr. B. H. Smith, 20 New Road, Kidderminster.

Description:

This is a single storey dwelling, which has been standing empty for at least one year. It is in a poor state of repair.

Planning Position

This building lies in an area zoned as Public Open Space on the Bewdley Review Town Map. Made the subject of an Article 4 Direction, which was approved by the Secretary of State for the Environment on 23.7.75 and published on 15.8.75. This Direction prevents alterations and improvements (including garages and the like) to the building. Forbids the erection of fowl pens, kennels and such like; forbids hardstanding, oil storage tanks; does not allow gates, fences etc., to be erected or maintained. This is the only planning history recorded.

5. Location:

Fairholme, Riverside North. This site is reached by means of a dirt track leading from the A.456 immediately adjacent to the bridge over the River Severn.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.02 hectares (0.06 acres).

Mr. A. Talbot, Fairholme, Riverside North, Bewdley.

Description

This is a single storey dwelling of wooden construction, which is used as a permanent residence. It is in a good state of repair.
Planning Position

Made the subject of an Article 4 Direction, which was approved by the Secretary of State for the Environment on 23.7.75 and published on 15.8.75. This Direction prevents alterations and improvements (including garages and the like) to the building. Forbids the erection of fowl pens, kennels and such like; forbids hardstanding, oil storage tanks; does not allow gates, fences etc., to be erected or maintained. Kidderminster Foreign

The dwellings in this parish, which fall into the category governing this report, fall into two distinctly separate areas, both geographically and in usage terms.

Bridgnorth Road, Kidderminster.

1. Goodwood

Location

On the western side of the Kidderminster/Bridgnorth Road (A442) about 220 metres from the boundary of Kidderminster Borough.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.08 hectares (0.2 acres)

Ownership

Mrs. A. V. Annett, Goodwood, Bridgnorth Road, Kidderminster.

Description

This is a single storey wooden dwelling, which is used as a permanent dwelling. It has been well maintained and is in apparently good physical condition. Set on the top of a rising parcel of land, this dwelling is part of a small scattered group of dwellings but due to its prominent position it forms a strident feature in the landscape scene, although some attempt at screening has taken place by way of trees and hedges.

Planning Position

This dwelling is in an area of Confirmed Green Belt and has no recorded planning history.

2. Eureka

Location

Adjacent to "Goodwood" and some 10 metres further west on the Kidderminster/Bridgnorth Road (A.442).

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.04 hectares (0.1 acres).

Ownership

H. Piggott, Eureka, Bridgnorth Road, Kidderminster.

Description

This is a single storey dwelling constructed from wood and asbestos, which is used as a permanent residence. It is in apparently good physical condition set on the top of a rising parcel of land. This dwelling is part of a scattered group of dwellings, but due to its prominent position it forms a strident feature in the landscape, although some attempt has been made at screening by way of trees and hedges.

Planning Position

This dwelling is set in an area of Confirmed Green Belt and has no recorded planning history. Since this report was compiled applications (WF.1289 and WF.1299 of 1978) to install a septic tank and erect a garage on this site have been approved.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.07 hectares (0.17 acres).

Ownership

Miss E. Piggott (deceased) Ash Grove, Bridgnorth.

Description

This is a single storey building, used as a permanent residence. It appears to be constructed entirely from asbestos and to be in a reasonable physical condition. Set on the top of a rising parcel of land this dwelling is part of a small scattered group of dwellings, but due to its prominent position it forms a strident feature in the landscape scene, although some attempt at screening has taken place by way of trees and hedges.

Planning Position

This dwelling is in an area of Confirmed Green Belt and has no recorded planning history. Since this report was compiled applications (WF.1289 and WF.1299 of 1978) to install a septic tank and erect a garage on this site have been approved.
Folly Point

Location

Although a part of Hill Farm, this site is so detached that it can be considered as a separate entity. It is situated north of the aqueduct and immediately south of the Trimley Reservoir, being bounded to the west by the river and to the east by the Severn Valley Railway.

Acreage

The total area of the site is 1.74 hectares (4.3 acres). Each dwelling having its own curtilage.

Ownership

The personal representatives of A. E. Halford (deceased) although the plots are rented or leased to six tenants namely:-

- Folly View: Miss E. M. Halford, Hill Farm, Northwood Lane, Bewdley.
- Seagull: J. Blackham, 297 Birmingham Road, Walsall.
- Jegsdeno: E. S. W. Knowles & Co., Moor Lane, Veronique
- Witton, Birmingham, 6.
- E. Davies, 146 Halford Lane
- W. Wright, 87 Longstone Road, Great Barr,
- Birmingham, 22A.

Description

This group of six single storey dwellings is reached by means of a footpath north of the aqueduct. Vehicular transport being prohibited beyond the aqueduct they are to be found around the perimeter of a triangular piece of land. With the exception of Folly View, which is constructed of asbestos type material with a rough cast finish, all are constructed from wood and have bitumen felt roofs. They are in apparently good physical condition, each within its own curtilage.

Planning Position

Set within a Landscape Protection Area, and zoned as Interim Green Belt, this site is reasonably well screened by trees on the riverbank, by hedgerows and the banks of the reservoir and the Severn Valley Railway Embankment. It has the same planning history as the rest of Hill Farm.

Hill Farm, Northwood Lane, Bewdley

Location:

This site is located on both sides of Northwood Lane at its northern end immediately south of the Aqueduct and some 1½ miles from Bewdley.

Acreage

The total area of this site, which contains both chalets and caravans, is approximately 26.71 hectares (66 acres) (some 3.64 hectares (9 acres) being associated with the siting of caravans).

Owner

Personal representatives of A. E. Halford (deceased) c/o D. A. Halford, Hill Farm, Northwood Lane, Bewdley, who either lease or rent sites to individuals.
Description

This site, although being treated as one, can be more easily be described if divided into three areas namely:

5. Severn Meadow which is bounded to the north by the aqueduct, to the south by a stream to the north of Bridewell House, to the west by the River Severn and to the east by Northwood Lane. All the dwellings on this land front either the river or Northwood Lane, each within its own curtilage and are apparently structurally sound. With the exception of two (The Bungalow, which is brick built, and Valda which appears on first sight to be a former railway carriage with a wooden extension) all are of either wooden construction with felt roofs or asbestos sheeting with felt roofing. There has been some attempt made to screen some of the dwellings with hedges or bushes, whilst the colour schemes on others leave much to be desired. Although, at the time of the site visit, there were one or two cars visible, the holiday usage was being generally observed. There were fifty-two dwellings visible on this land and two caravans.

6. Northwood Lane situated to the east of Northwood Lane and between the lane and the Severn Valley Railway some 120 metres north of Northwood Hall are ten bungalows. One of these appears to be a "prefabricated" type whilst the remainder are of wooden construction or a mixture of wood and asbestos. These are all in a good physical condition with tidy well-kept gardens. There is some indication that one or two may be used as permanent residences.

7. Hill Farm except for one dwelling on Northwood Lane immediately south of the track leading up to the farm, all the dwellings are situated on steeply rising grounds to the east of the Severn Valley Railway, to the south of the farm buildings extending southerly to the northern boundary of Gills Rough and easterly to the caravan site and field parcel No. 1767. This area contains the largest accumulation consisting of some 130 chalets and 7 caravans (excluding the sites covered by a separate caravan site report). They are all well maintained, being predominantly built of wood, with a few of asbestos construction, and roofed mostly in bitumen felt but with occasional asbestos roofing. All stand within their own curtilages and many have shrubs or hedges which provides some screening and this combined with the steeply climbing site with some declivities tends to diminish the impact of this concentration at close quarters. It is only at a distance that the full impact of this site on the landscape can be felt.

In general, except for the dwellings fronting the eastern side of Northwood Lane and those few dwellings immediately adjacent to the tar mac track to Hill Farm itself, none is served by a reasonable hard surface. All the tracks are deeply rutted and in bad weather could be difficult to traverse. There are no parking areas on any portion of the site and access to the riverside bungalows is across the grass land. nowhere are there any recreational or communal facilities, indeed on the largest part of the site, it is doubtful, due to the topography, if any could be provided.

Planning Position:

Set within a Landscape Protection Area this site has probably the biggest visual impact on the scenery within the district especially when viewed from the west bank of the river and from farther afield. Although possibly difficult to achieve, a landscaping exercise could do much to reduce this effect. This site has a long and complicated planning history - some of the dwellings had established user rights, whilst the remainder were granted planning permission on appeal in June 1962. Appeal files 1645, 1646, 1647 deal with this history in some detail. The site has had no more recent planning history.
Ribbesford

There is one site within this parish.

Location:

Dorset Cottage, Leight Lane (Heightington Road) Ribbesford, Bewdley.

Acreage

The area of the site is indefinable being set within that of Haye Cottage whose area is .43 hectares (1.07 acres).

Ownership

A.C. Somers, Haye Cottage, Leight Lane, Ribbesford, Bewdley.

Description

This is a single storey wooden dwelling, which is used as a permanent residence immediately to the east of Haye Cottage. It would appear to be in a reasonable physical condition.

Planning Position

Set within a Landscape Protection Area, this dwelling is one of a number of isolated developments in this attractive rural area. It has no architectural merit and has been likened to the average village hall. A planning application (KR.220/65) to replace the existing building was made in July 1965 and permission was refused on 19th August, 1965 for zoning reasons. There is no other planning history recorded for this site.
CALLOW HILL-ROCK
Rock

This large parish has a number of dwellings of a non-permanent nature, which are to be found in three distinct but separate areas; Callow Hill, Far Forest and Heighton.

Callow Hill

Location:

The Hollies, Chapel Lane, Callow Hill, Rock.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.35 hectares (0.86 acres)

Ownership

Miss T. Simmonds, Summerdyne, Chapel Lane, Callow Hill.

Description

This is a substantial single storey building used as a permanent residence. It is of wood and asbestos construction with a tiled roof. It would appear to be structurally sound. This dwelling, set within a Landscape Protection Area, forms a part of a scatter of dwellings on both sides of the main A456 Kidderminster/Tenbury Road. Lying as it does on a poor unmade access track it is inconspicuous and is screened by trees and hedgerows.

Planning Position

This site has no recorded planning history.

Location:

Oxbind, Chapel Lane, Callow Hill is situated on the west side of the lane approximately 100 metres north east of The Hollies.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.1 hectares (0.24 acres).

Ownership:

Miss T. Simmonds, Summerdyne; Chapel Lane, Callow Hill.

Description

This is a single storey building constructed from corrugated iron sheets and having a slate roof. It is used as a permanent residence. This dwelling, set within a Landscape Protection Area, is in a reasonable condition, and forms part of a scatter of dwellings at this point on the A456 Kidderminster Road. It is, however, not visible from the road being situated along a poor unmade access road. Its appearance could be improved by maintenance including a coat of suitably coloured paint.

Planning Position

There is no planning history recorded for this site.
Far Forest

Location:

Bungalow in Cleobury Road

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.13 hectares (0.33 acres)

Ownership

Exors. of George Oliver (deceased)

Description

This is a single storey building situated at the corner of the lane leading to Ranters Bank with the Kidderminster-Ludlow Road (A.4117). It is apparently used for holiday purposes only and is constructed from wood with a bitumen felt roof. It would appear to be in a poor physical condition.

Planning Position

This dwelling which is in a Landscape Protection Area is partially hidden by trees on the site and is therefore not particularly obtrusive. An application (WP.429/77) to demolish the existing shack and replace it with a brick built bungalow was refused in July 1977. There is no other planning history.
Location: 2
The Bungalow, Ranters Bank

The area of the site is .06 hectares (0.15 acres)

Ownership
Mrs. F. I. Lambert, The Bungalow, Ranters Bank, Far Forest.

Description
This is a single storey building used as a permanent residence. It is built of wood with a corrugated iron roof. It would appear to be structurally sound. There are other structures on the site constructed of corrugated iron. In general the site could be tidied up, but it is well-screened by trees and is therefore fairly unobtrusive.

Planning Position
This dwelling is set in a Landscape Protection Area and is close to boundary of the district. There is no planning history recorded.

Location: 3
Oak Tree Bungalow, Kinlet Road, Far Forest. This dwelling lies immediately west of Lane Cottage.

Acreage
The area of the site is 1 acre.

Owner
Mr. F. Gregory, Oak Tree Bungalow, Kinlet Road, Far Forest.

Parcel 3900, which slopes quite steeply from the centre to both east and west has two single storey buildings. One is of wooden construction with a felt roof, whilst the other could be either an old railway carriage or bus body with wooden extensions at each end. This building has a roof consisting of curved sheets. Within this field is a caravan and a semi-derelict building and caravan used for some form of agricultural use. All the buildings on this site are used as holiday residences.

The site has no apparent facilities by way of toilet accommodation or car parking. Whilst the only water supply would appear to be from a tap in a field No. 4329. Electricity is available on the site.

Planning Position

Set within a Landscape Protection Area, this site alas has a rather complicated history. Enforcement Notices were served on the landowner, (Mrs. Lewis) and the occupiers of structures on or about 20th March, 1951 requiring them to remove the structures by 31st December, 1953. Some of the structures were later found to have been there before 1935 and were excluded from the Enforcement Notice. Mrs. Lewis applied for planning permission to continue the use of her land as a site for bungalows and other temporary structures, but this was refused in January, 1952.
Mrs. Lewis was then told that if she arranged the structures along the lines of the hedges and applied again, she might get a limited permission. She did in fact apply again (Plan No. 26/52) and was granted permission in February, 1952 expiring on 31st December, 1956. Subsequently in 1952 and 1953 negotiations continued with a view to getting a better layout, culminating in a further planning permission to Mrs. E. H. Lewis and Mr. A.D. Scott (62/53), coupled with a discontinuance order cancelling the previous planning permission. Permission No. 62/53, expired on 31st December, 1957 but a further permission of the same number was granted on 27th September, 1956 to expire on 30th September, 1961. Finally on 28th July, 1964 the former Kidderminster Rural District Council refused any further renewal. An appeal was lodged against this decision which resulted in the present structures and those with existing user rights being allowed to remain, enforcement notices were served on the owners to comply with the Minister's decision. The resulting appeal was dismissed in 1967.

Finally in 1969 a outline application to erect a bungalow adjacent to the site was refused on 14th January, 1969 and the resultant appeal was dismissed on 24th November, 1969. There has been no further planning history since that date.
UPPER ARLEY

Hawkbatch Farm

Location: 6

This site is situated approximately 2 mile east of the B4194 Bewley - Kinlet Road at the end of an unmade road through Wyre Forest and between the eastern edge of the Forest and the West Bank of the River Severn.

Acreage

The total area of the site is approximately 11.53 hectares (28.5 acres)

Ownership

The site owner is Mr. E. Blount, Hawkbatch Farm, Bewley

Description

This is a large steeply sloping site which is extremely conspicuous from the eastern side of the River Severn, containing both caravans and chalets. For the purpose of this report it is proposed to divide the site into two parts, that to the north of the unmade road to the farm and that to the south. The northern section containing most of the shacks, with the southern section accommodating most of the caravans.

To the north of the entrance track, immediately on entrance to the site is a row of nine caravans perched on top of a slope and in the lee of a hedgerow. Behind these caravans and further to the north lies an enclave containing most of the shacks. Here within an area of approximately 7.5 acres are 30 plots set around a central open grassed area of approximately 3.5 acres and served by a gravel track. These contain 26 shacks and 2 caravans. These shacks are mainly constructed from wood and have felt roofs. A few have tiled roofs and asbestos has been used on two roofs and in one wall construction. Although there are no communal toilet and recreation facilities available, the site does have both a water and electricity supply available for connection. All these dwellings appear to be in a reasonable physical condition, and although a site notice appears to the contrary, some of these shacks are in use as permanent dwellings and not solely for holiday purposes.

A further seven shacks are situated against the western edge of the field immediately to the north of the farm buildings and an eighth is situated adjacent to the north eastern corner of this field. These occupy approximately 0.5 acre. These buildings are all constructed from wood and have felt roofs. Access to these dwellings is by way of a rough track and in wet weather could only be reached through ankle deep mud.

To the south of the track is the farmhouse and buildings, a brick built bungalow and six shacks built on sloping ground. Thence by way of a track is a parcel of land No. 3190. Round the perimeter of this parcel are four shacks (3 on the west and 1 on the east) and twenty caravans. All the shacks are of wooden construction.
with felt roofs and appear to be in reasonably good condition. None of the caravans would appear to be on hand standing.

Planning Position

With the exception of one plot for which temporary planning permission was given in December, 1953 (KR.119/53) for a period of five years and renewed in 1962 for a further two years until 31st December, 1964, it would appear from an undated letter received by Kidderminster Rural District Council on 24th December, 1958 that it is conceded that this is a pre-act site. It is obvious from a site inspection that the shacks have remained except for one or two demolitions whilst the caravan layout would appear to be much more elastic. Although the site has no communal facilities of any sort, there is a site license, issued by the former Rural District Council in 1968 for 44 vans, displayed in the farmhouse porch. This site's impact on the landscape could be reduced by persuading the owner to undertake some landscaping measures.

Description

These are all single storey buildings of a variety of constructions. All are in a reasonable physical condition and are used for holiday purposes only.

Planning Position

Set within a Landscape Protection Area, except for the most northerly of these dwellings, which would appear to have no planning history, this site appears to have a complicated history, individual tenants, in addition to the landowner having applied for and been granted temporary permissions all of which expired on 31st December, 1956. However, the owners were granted renewals until permission was refused on 11th September, 1959. The owners appealed against this decision. The appeal, after written representations was allowed until 31st October, 1960. However, the former Kidderminster Rural District Council failed to take any further action and the site is now deemed to having planning permission.

Immediately east of Richmond Cottage and about 50 metres from the unclassified road from Button Oak to Arley.

Arrangement

The area of the site is 0.06 hectares (0.15 acres)

Ownership

The owner of the site is not known

Description

There are two former single storey dwellings on this site, both of which are built of wood with felt roofs. They are now in use as fowl houses to the annoyance of the neighbouring Woodseaves Cottage.

Planning Position

Set within a Landscape Protection Area, this site has a somewhat complicated history. Although within one curtilage each of these former dwellings has its own planning history the building to the east of Richmond Cottage was given the benefit of a temporary planning permission until 31st December, 1956 as a result of an application (KR.34/52) submitted in March 1952. There is no record of any renewal application.

The building immediately west of Woodseaves Cottage: An application (KR.86/51) was received as a result of an Enforcement Notice served in March 1951 and a temporary permission granted until 31st December, 1956. There is no record of any renewal application.

In March, 1952 an application (KR.35/52) to retain these two dwellings plus two more and a caravan was received from the owner of the land. Temporary planning permission was granted in July, 1952 which expired on 31st December, 1956. A renewal application for three bungalows was granted until 31st December, 1957. In April, 1958 four bungalows and a caravan were allowed until 30th June, 1958. No further application was received until April, 1962 by which time a further caravan had been added to the application. This was granted in May, 1962 and expired on 31st December, 1962. In December, 1966 Enforcement Notices were served on the owners to take effect on 30th January, 1967. The owners appealed and following a public enquiry was dismissed with the exception of the bungalow known as Orchard View. This latter being allowed for the sole benefit of the owner, still appears on the current rating lists.
All the temporary dwellings within this Parish are those that remain from the Worcestershire County Council's Clearance Programme for the Kingsford Area. It is still the Hereford and Worcester County Council's policy to continue to purchase any that are offered to it, subject to finance being available. All the properties involved lie to the west of Kingsford Lane and extend from Lower Kingsford Farm in the south to the District and County Boundary in the north. This area is an area of Confirmed Green Belt and is also a proposed Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty. All the dwellings in this area have a detrimental effect on the landscape whether they be permanent or temporary structures especially when viewed from Kinver Edge, although this is minimised in some instances by landscaping features and the topography. All the dwellings are within individual curtilages and they cannot be considered as a site by any means.
Location:
Lyndhurst, Castle Hill is situated on the east side of a track known as Castle Hill Lane which leads from Kingsford Lane to Castle Hill Farm.

Acreage
The area of the site is 0.12 hectares (0.31 acres).

Ownership
Mr. T.W. Fass, Lyndhurst, Castle Hill, Wolverley.

Description
This is a single storey building. It is constructed from wood on a brick base and has a tiled roof. It is in a good condition and is used as a permanent residence. This dwelling has little impact due to its location and a good tree screen. It is served by a poor unmade track.

Planning Position
The present dwelling was granted a temporary planning permission (KR.130/58) which expired on 30th September 1963 and there is no record of any application to renew this permission. Although this site has no further planning history the adjoining site immediately north has been the subject of three planning applications for dwellings all of which were refused, (KR.66/59, KR.327/61 (after an appeal) and WF.1027/75) as was an earlier application to retain a caravan (KR.347/51).
Location: 2
Broadlea, Castle Hill is situated at the rear of the dwellings which front Castle Hill Lane and is reached by following a rough track leading from the lane for approx. 280 metres in a generally northern direction and then for a further 140 metres westerly.

Ownership
Mr. D. Shakeshaft, 9 Central Avenue, Bilston.

Description
This is a single storey building constructed from wood covered by felt having an asbestos roof, and is in a poor condition. It is used as a holiday residence only. This dwelling has an impact on the rural scene which should be eradicated at the earliest opportunity. It has poor access which is barely traversible by wheeled vehicles.

Planning Position
A planning application (KR.356/51) was made for the retention of this shack in September 1951. It was refused but following an appeal, it was allowed to remain for a further period of three years which expired on 28th May 1956. This permission was apparently renewed again until 30th September 1959. (There are no copies of these permissions in the Rural District's file). There is no other planning history.

In August 1961 an outline application was received to replace a timber structure by a permanent structure, this was refused in October 1961 and subsequently allowed on appeal on 9th May 1962. Detailed permission for the permanent wooden structure was given on 1st January 1963 following an application (KR.392/62) submitted in December 1962. There is no other planning history.

Acreage

The area of the site is 0.1 hectares (0.25 acres).

Description

This is a single storey building constructed from wood, and having a tiled roof. It is in good condition and has had an extension added to the original building. It is used as a holiday residence only.

Planning Position

An outline application (KR.248/67) for the replacement of a temporary wooden bungalow on this site was refused by Kidderminster R.D.C. on 12th March 1968. The extensions referred to in the description above, tantamount to a new dwelling, were carried out without the benefit of planning permission, and Enforcement Action was commenced against the owner. This action was suspended on receipt of a planning application (WF.794/76) to legalise the works which had taken place. This was refused on 12th October 1976 whereupon an appeal against the decision was lodged. This appeal was dismissed on 21st April 1977. Negotiations to effect a compromise solution have continued since that date and Enforcement Action was due to commence on 31st January 1978 in the event of non-compliance.

There have been only two recorded planning applications in respect of this site. In September 1955 an application (KR.189/55) was received to erect a garage and poultry house. Permission for this development was granted on 6th December 1955. An application (KR.23/70) to alter the existing dwelling was made on the 22nd January 1970 and a refusal was issued on 20th March 1970 on the grounds of (1) it is tantamount to a new dwelling, (2) it is within an area of great landscape value, and (3) lack of adequate public services.

Location:

Kozi-Cot is situated on the west side of Kingsford Lane and is the last building on this side of the road, being immediately south of the boundary of Kingsford Country Park.

Acreage:

The area of the site is 0.16 hectares (0.4 acres).

Ownership:

Mr. S.E. Bache, Kozi-Cot, Kingsford Lane, Wolverley.

Description:

This is an irregular shaped building which gives the appearance of several small units joined together to create one. This building is constructed from wood and has a felt roof. It would appear to be in a reasonable condition and is used as a permanent residence. It is in a prominent position and visibly affects the area.

Planning Position:

Following the serving of an Enforcement Notice a planning application (KR.321/51) was made in September 1951 for the retention of this site as a caravan site. This was approved in January 1953 giving permission for its use until 1st June 1954. In April 1954 a renewal application (KR.41/54) was made and permission granted until 31st December 1959. Condition 2 of this permission has had the words "and one bungalow" added to the three caravans to be allowed. This was superseded by a permission issued on 27th September 1956 for the retention of a timber bungalow and the continuance of the use of sites for four caravans. A further renewal was refused on 11th September 1959 and the owners appealed. The appeal was dismissed on the 10th June 1960. In his report, the Inspector said that the site was in the green belt and in an area of great landscape value. The caravans and the wooden dwelling formed a visual intrusion into the landscape and there was no overwhelming evidence of need for their retention. In his opinion, the clearing from the valley of all the temporary structures was very desirable and he considered that a gradual run-down would cause fewer hardships than a sudden cessation. Generally, the structures were used only periodically so there could be no pleas of hardship from their owners. The appellant would suffer some hardship by loss of income and by the loss of the bungalow in which he lived permanently. His recommendation to the Minister was that the appeal be dismissed. He added that the application was intended to cover the wooden dwelling, and he had no strong objection to that building being retained until 31st December. The question of the retention of the wooden bungalow is, in the Minister's view, a matter which ought to be considered locally in the first instance.

Two further applications (KR.330/61 and KR.7/66) for a permanent dwelling were refused on 2nd August 1962 and 15th February 1966 respectively. A further application (KR.8/66) for the retention of the bungalow was also refused on 15th February 1966 and the owners appealed. This appeal was withdrawn in September 1966, but there is no evidence on file to identify the party who withdrew it.

Location
Edge View, Birds Barn Lane is situated on the west side of the unmade track approximately 200 metres north of its junction with Sheepwash Lane.

Acreage
The area of the site is 0.16 hectares (0.4 acres).

Ownership
D.J. Simons, Edge View, Birds Barn Lane, Wolverley.

Description
This is a single storey building. It is constructed partly from wood and has had brick extensions added, having a tiled roof. It is in a reasonable condition and is apparently used as a permanent residence. Sited on rising ground, it is visible from both near and far. Access for vehicular traffic along the unmade track is poor with the junction with Sheepwash Lane being virtually blind.

Planning Position
As a result of an Enforcement Notice a planning application (KR.110/51) was received on 21st April 1951. This was apparently approved, as there is a renewal permission issued on 1st January 1956 and expiring on 30th September 1963; Condition No.4 of which says, "The structure shall not be used as a permanent residence."

An application (KR.239/61) for an extension to this dwelling was submitted on 30th August 1961 and approval granted on 10th October 1961. From correspondence on file, it is apparent that this dwelling is a pre-Act dwelling rendering the previous paragraph null and void. A further revised planning application (KR.52/62) was received on 12th March 1962 and approved on 1st May 1962. Correspondence on this file confirms that this is indeed a pre-Act structure. It is also clear from a letter on File (KR.52/62) that this should now be considered a brick structure. An application (WF.85/77) was received on 3rd February 1977 and approved on 15th March 1977 for improvements, re-roofing and a kitchen extension. A further application (WF.03/78) was received for a new balcony (part of the improvements in progress) on 31st January 1978.
